Short Guide to Tri-Town's July 4th Events

Compiled by Jean Perry

We shall forego the 'sad trombone' sound as we lament the cancelation of this year's fireworks display in Marion, again, due to a shortcoming in fundraising … but what the heck. We should do it anyway. (Sad trombone.)

However, we still have options for celebrating the independence of our nation with bangs and oohs and aahs. We just have to travel a little bit to get our fireworks fix.

Maybe you like to fit in as many fireworks displays as possible, or perhaps you just like an early start on the celebration. A good place to go for a July 3 spectacle is the Freetown fireworks held at Hathaway Park on South Main and Water Streets in Assonet. The show starts at 8:00 pm. The rain date, which we hope will be a moot point come the time, is July 9, same time and place.

Middleboro holds its own fireworks event on July 3, starting a bit later at 10:00 pm, always at the Battis Field at the Pierce Playground on Jackson Street. Their rain date is July 5.

On July 4, there is always the spectacular fireworks display over New Bedford Harbor, which is never a disappointment. Fireworks start at 9:00 pm (nice and early for the younger ones), with a rain date the next night, July 5.

FYI, if you miss the Fourth of July fireworks, there is also a fireworks display on July 9 at 9:15 pm at the Walsh Athletic Fields at 328 Parker Street. No rain date is scheduled for this one, though.

Plymouth will have fireworks on July 4 starting between 9:00-9:15 pm over the Plymouth Waterfront, as well.

There's a plethora of other Independence Day festivities around the area, too, like the annual Marion Fourth of July Parade starting at 9:00 am at the ball field beside the Town House. The parade heads east on Main Street, up Spring Street, and over to Route 6.

Don't forget the Marion Horse Show at Washburn Park also occurs on July 4, 8:30 am to 4:00 pm!

Over in Mattapoisett is the annual Mattapoisett Road Race, the July 4th race that winds through historic Mattapoisett Village, around Ned's Point Lighthouse, and back to Shipyard Park at the Town Wharf. Run the 5-mile race or just come out for the fun! The race starts at 9:00 am and the proceeds go towards college-bound ORRHS runners. There is more information at www.mattapoisettroadrace.com.

The Wanderer wishes everyone a happy and safe Fourth of July and a Happy Birthday, America!

Traveling Troubadours Visit Mattapoisett

Massachusetts Walking Tours

By Marilou Newell

In a perfect union among like-minded organizations – those being the Mattapoisett Public Library, South Coast Bike Way, Mattapoisett Land Trust and the Seventh Annual Massachusetts Walking Tour – the June 23 evening air in Mattapoisett Village was filled with harmony.

On this splendid summer's evening about 50 people, young and old alike, gathered on the grounds of the Mattapoisett Congregational Church to enjoy the musical talents of local and visiting musicians.

Sponsored by the Massachusetts Cultural Council and GoFundMe campaigns, the troupe simply known as the Massachusetts Walking Tour visits towns along pedestrian and bike trails during the summer season. Front man Mark Mandeville said, "We'll do eighteen concerts in eighteen days visiting towns along the routes."

Since the inception of the musical happening in 2010, Mandeville along with members Mark Kilianski, Amy Alvey, Raianne Richards and Kristen Sykes have played in 80 towns. "Our goal is to play at towns along trails throughout the state, visiting each once," he said. And in keeping with the traveling troubadour mode of transportation, it is a bipedal effort – they walk from town to town camping overnight carrying about fifty pounds of supplies and, of course, their instruments.

Most of the group members are music teachers in central Massachusetts cities and towns during the winter months. Joined by local musicians at each town they visit, most of their promotional activity centers around media releases and networking with libraries and organizers of biking and walking trails in the commonwealth.

Well-known local advocate of pedestrian and bicycling pathways, Bonne DeSousa said, "When Susan Pizzolato (Mattapoisett Public Library Director) asked me if my group wanted to get involved, I said "Yes!'" Beaming with joy she continued, "This is all about bringing people together across communities keeping interest alive in biking and walking."

Local musicians Mary Beth Soares and Joan Akin sang, while the amazing Mighty Uketones, a group of ukulele players each of whom has been playing for less than a year, performed with gusto. There was also Isabella Bernardi of Mattapoisett playing her banjo. She said that she hadn't played in the high school band because, "Well, they don't have a banjo section." Bernardi is a 2016 graduate of ORRHS headed to UMass Dartmouth in the fall to major in civil engineering – a natural transition from banjo playing not unlike Steve Martin.

Wading Birds: The Egret

By George B. Emmons

My most recent afternoon ritual for bird watching walk took me down Reservation Road to the point at the end of the Mattapoisett Peninsula. It leads past the Golf Course of the same name toward a residential landmark of the King estate, and now the YMCA where my daughter teaches pre-school. The golf course is a typical links lay out bordering many holes of an extensive marsh and wading bird paradise for Great Blue Herons, Egrets, and Bitterns. I just happened to bring my clubs along to make my afternoon entertaining as well as educational.

golf game, he said, "Most often, it is a good walk spoiled." Today, however, many golf courses even in metropolitan areas are an oasis of open land for wildlife and a natural mecca for bird watchers. The Reservation Golf Course is no exception. After teeing off from the clubhouse on the first hole, my second shot of a fairway wood landed me close to the edge of the wetland with a wide expanse panorama with eye-catching solitary white images.

The Great Egret has a high-profile image, almost 4 feet high, with a 5-foot wing span, a curved neck with a long wispy white plume that trails from the back and neck as in my drawing (viewable online). They are spectacular nuptial feathers called aigrettes. This ethereal decoration for preening and breeding caused the Egret to be hunted almost to extinction for ladies' fashions. One ounce of aigrette of an Egret sold for $32, which at the turn of the nineteenth century was double the price of gold.

The feather market trade ended with the passage of the Migratory Bird Act and later publication of Silent Spring by Rachel Carson prohibited pesticides and chemicals rendering egg shells too thin to hatch. Both parents together brood and feed the young as shown, usually five or six to start but dwindling down to three or four from nest robbing by Great Horned Owls and crows. The larger young are also known to eat the smaller ones.

They grow long black legs used as rudders for flying and wading to stand motionless in shallows to fiercely strike with a long bill for fish, shrimp, or worms. The species of Snowy Egret is smaller but tall as statuesque as an avian ballerina with yellow feet, called golden slippers, used to stir up prey in shallow waters. An hour before sunset, Egrets leave the marsh and head for higher ground to gather company in trees for comfort in the coming night. As I teed up for the last hole toward the

Tykes Learn By Doing STEM Experiments

By Marilou Newell

Schools may be closed for summer, but learning takes place year-round especially when you combine fun tasks and the willingness of little children to imagine – just imagine. And that is just what happened in Rochester when a STEM program was launched.

STEM, which stands for science, technology, engineering and math, is a system that combines those core elements through an interdisciplinary experience. Web-based platforms that discuss STEM use such language as "cohesive learning paradigm" to describe the teaching system. But during the week of June 20-24 as the Plumb Library in Rochester hosted five one-hour STEM sessions for kids ages 3 to 6, it was clear that fun was also part of the process.

As Lisa Fuller, aka Ms. Lisa, library assistant for children's services, read a short story to the tykes in attendance at the June 24 gathering, the bunny in the box became the bunny in a ship, or rocket, or castle, or, well use your own imagination.

With their creative juices flowing, the children were then gathered into two groups. One group was assisted by junior helper Ella Charron, a fourth grader aged 9, and the other by junior helper Allison Winters, a fifth grader aged 10. The junior helpers guided the tiny STEM explorers as they employed their imagination and skills to create a "cold lava lamp" or a bridge structure using paper cups and Popsicle sticks. Each day, different experiments helped the children to see beyond the objects on the table to what those objects could become while asking them to count numbers, identify colors, read, or use age-appropriate tools.

Simple yet engaging aspects of the program included a beach ball covered with numbers to help the children with counting and math, using tools such as scissors to make name tags, and of course, laughter. Social interaction took place naturally as the children helped one another with cheerful encouragement. Though not an official part of the STEM system, that dynamic can't be overlooked.

Fuller said that approximately 25 children from the Tri-Town area had participated in the program with some children attending everyday. "This was in partnership with ORR's Early Childhood Program," Fuller said.

While the children were clearly getting a great deal out of the program, it was also clear that the moms and dads who stood by watching and cheering on their small charges were enjoying the program as well.

The STEM activity was sponsored by a grant from the Massachusetts Department of Early Education and Care's Coordinated Family and Community Engagement.

to standing room only in advance of a hotly contentious hearing: Wellspring Farms.

The board's agenda featured an appeal of the building inspector's recent decision that the business being operated by James and Holly Vogel at 42 Hiller Road was not permitted. A second hearing listed as an application seeking a special permit to allow commercial use of the property was also on the agenda.

Represented by attorney George Boerger, the Vogels listened while Boerger spoke for over 30-minutes on reasons why their operation was in harmony the town's bylaws and was, in fact, a "right of use" case.

Boerger described the services provided at Wellspring Farm as "educational and agricultural." He said that a 2001 board of appeals decision determined that activities at the property were a right as an education use and that the right of use for agricultural activities had not been brought up at that time.

Boerger then talked about the educational and therapeutic services at the farm, saying that the Vogels themselves no longer provide direct services but use a group of licensed sub-contractors. They also have one full-time employee.

Boerger insisted that the 2001 decision by the then-sitting members of the ZBA was correct when it decided to allow the operation. He went on to add that since that time, the operation had changed in several ways.

He said operational hours and days, as well as the number of clients served, had decreased, and he called the provided service "a unique form of education" that used the natural environment and the animals to help facilitate the growth and well being of the clients. He said that use of the animals was part and parcel to the process and, as such, constituted agricultural use of the property. The Vogels keep horses, donkeys, goats, alpacas, and one micro-mini pig.

Boerger also referenced eight letters in support of the Vogels from clients' families and from several school districts including Middleboro and New Bedford.

When asked about accreditation of the operation by ZBA member Thomas Flynn, Vogel responded that he is audited three times a year by the Massachusetts Health and Human Services agency.

But the question on the minds of many in attendance, primarily those abutters in opposition to the farm's operation, was: "Is this educational or mental health services?"

Attorney John Markey, representing as many as seven abutters, went directly to that big question saying, "…it's a commercial business, an outpatient mental health group practice, is this appropriate for the neighborhood…" He recognized the importance of services such as those supplied by the Vogels' operation but wondered about the rights of the neighbors to enjoy their property. The neighbors' complaints were the increase in traffic on a rural country road that put them and their children in danger.

But there were other concerns, those not primarily based on questions of zoning rights.

Kathy Mendoza, 32 Hiller Road said, "It's very noisy. We don't use our pool because people are parked in cars staring into our yard. It invades my privacy." She said, "We've stapled tarps to trees in the backyard to get some privacy." She began to express concerns about animal waste and associated smells, but ZBA chairman Richard Cutler said, "That's the Board of Health."

Sarah Miller, 23 Hiller Road said, "Traffic is a problem; it's impacted our lives in the short time we've been here."

Paula Alexander, 14 Hiller Road, said, "All of us applaud the good work at Wellspring, but it is a business; there is an undue burden with traffic."

Another abutter Ed Amaral said, "…traffic is mind boggling: buses, cabs, private cars, people looking into our yard…"

Mike Donovan, 31 Hiller Road, said, "I've lived there for twenty-seven years, but the past four or five years traffic has grown: buses, vans, cars continually in that area, noise levels. It's not the same." He also said that the Vogels' property was on the market with a multi-million-dollar price tag being described as an outpatient center and commercial business.

Vogels.

Mary Delmonico of Pembroke said, "There's no place like this. Without Wellspring, my kids are lost."

Rene Rivet, 213 Walnut Plain Road, said "It's very quiet as far as I'm concerned."

Jennifer Govoni of Wareham shared, "My daughter is blind. She learns by feeling the horse's mane; you can't provide education like that in a traditional school."

Mike Martin said, "I've lived on Hiller Road for forty-eight years. Of course, you're going to have more traffic," citing the growth overall in Rochester.

Vogel spoke to the abutters in opposition saying, "Your idea of education is narrow. This is experiential learning … it saves the town money … the schools come to me. It's hard for people to understand."

Bill Guilmette, Fall River, said that he had four children receiving services at Wellspring, "People are selfish; they say 'not in my backyard….'"

A chorus went up from the back of the room as Guilmette's comment touched a nerve in other supporters of the Vogels.

Cutler stood up and loudly proclaimed, "If I have any more of this, I'll clear the room!"

The ZBA members decided they had received enough information from the public and closed down the public comment portion of the hearing. Boeger was allowed to rebut opposition statements. He said, "This is education in a different way."

Cutler said the ZBA had a lot of information to process and wanted to give each member sufficient time to privately review it all. The hearing on the Vogels' appeal was continued until July 14. Their application for a special permit was not heard.

Cutler said if the board votes to overturn the building inspector's decision, then the special permit hearing would not be necessary. If they voted to accept that decision, then the special permit hearing could move forward. He also said he may or may not reopen the appeal to public comment on July 14.

Outside the public meeting in a follow-up conversation, Vogel said, "People came to speak and they

Solar Farm On-Track for Approval

Rochester Planning Board

By Jean Perry

The Meadowatt, LLC solar farm slated for 188-190 Marion Road (Route 105) is closing in on approval after the Rochester Planning Board on June 28 suggested the town planner devise a draft decision to review at the next meeting.

With waiver requests all straightened out and the plan revised to replace a proposed vinyl faux stonewall with a cedar stockade fence, the board felt confident that a few revisions to the plan made by the next meeting, along with the draft decision, would lead to approval by the end of July.

The cedar fence, said engineer Bob Bersin, would be 7 feet high and raised 6 inches off the ground, giving it a height of 7 feet 6 inches. The vinyl wall previously proposed was 6.9 feet. On the rear side of the project, the plan for a black chain-link fence remains.

The board requires that the fence be installed before any work is done on the construction of the solar arrays; however, it has allowed the developer time to cut down trees and construct a road before the fence is built for logistical reasons.

"That will deter any inconvenience to the neighborhood," said Planning Board member Gary Florindo. He later suggested tweaking the proposed hours of operation during construction from 7:00 am -

With decommissioning amounts settled, screening and landscaping and maintenance plans all submitted, and the existing house at the site planned for demolition, Chairman Arnold Johnson offered the developer reassurance that the board would move forward in the process with the draft decision, but a vote would first require updating of the plans to reflect the fencing changes.

One abutter made one last-ditch effort to sway the board to reject the solar farm plan to no avail, as Johnson explained to Morgan Cecil who suggested that since the Planning Board is tasked with developing and following the town's Master Plan to keep Rochester rural, it should follow through with that.

"That doesn't give us the right to deny a project," said Johnson. If the developer chose litigation, a judge could remand the matter back to the board, Johnson said, if the judge found it unreasonable. "It's kind of a fine line. Property owners' rights are property owners' rights."

Johnson reassured Cecil that the board does its due diligence in solar farm matters, spending hours at onsite visits and ensuring that screening is effective and decommissioning escrows are appropriate.

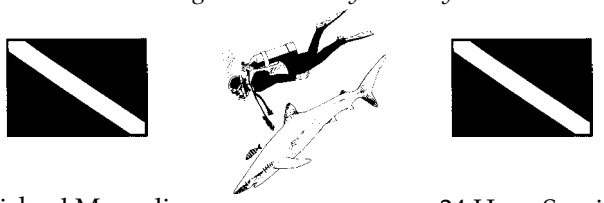

Johnson later told the developer that, after approval, the board would revisit the site in the fall after

The matter was continued until July 12.

Mattapoisett Conservation Commission

By Marilou Newell

The age-old adages "everything takes longer than planned" and "nothing ever goes smoothly" could have been applied during the June 27 meeting of the Mattapoisett Conservation Commission as five of the eight planned hearings were continued until July 11.

Before getting underway, Chairman Bob Rogers acknowledged commission member Peter Newton for his six years of service on the commission, many of those as the chairman. Newton elected not to seek another term when his current term expires on July 1.

"You'll be missed," Rogers said. "It's been a pleasure working with you."

Then it was on to the hearings.

The commission was able to vote on three applications. Two applications – an RDA submitted by Gowing Family Trust for the installation of beach access signage on two stone/concrete jetties located at 1 Avenue A and an RDA submitted by Tanya Sjahfiedin, 44 Crystal Spring Road, for the construction of a second-story deck – both received Negative determinations. The third application was a partial Certificate of Compliance for property located on Fieldstone Drive, Lot 8, filed by The Preserve at Bay Club.

The next five filings all required continuances.

William and Jane Farran propose to build an elevated home on Angelica Avenue on a parcel fraught with technical difficulties given its proximity to saltmarshes.

Represented by Mark Manganello of LEC Environmental Consultants and David Davignon of N. Douglas Schneider & Associates, the team was faced with questions in this continuance from the June 13 hearing regarding the need to bring in fill.

Rogers sought to determine if the fill was necessary to the stability of the structure, if there was a need for large stones to secure the fill in place, and whether or not those elements met FEMA regulations for construction in a flood zone.

Manganello said the fill was not related to the construction of the home but was for drainage under the structure. He confirmed that the house would be a free-standing building raised on pile-driven supports unassociated with the fill, and that a planned slab would meet FEMA requirements for 'break-away' during a storm surge.

Manganello said Farran still needed to go before the Zoning Board of Appeals due to issues with setbacks, but could not do so without first getting a green light from the commission.

Rogers said, referring to FEMA's regulations, "The revised plan still does not conform to the rules."

Manganello and Davignon continued to try and achieve at least an agreement from the commission that the conceptual project would eventually meet conservation karma. Rogers was unable to agree.

"I don't think it's appropriate for us to write a letter to the ZBA," said Rogers. "You'd be a lot better off with an Order of Conditions."

But an Order of Conditions would not be forthcoming at this hearing, given the unanswered questions of whether of not the project met FEMA rules.

"You need to come into compliance with the FEMA regulations," Rogers insisted.

Davignon said that the town's procedure required that the project receive a blessing from the Conservation Commission before it could go before the ZBA and, yet, Rogers was telling them to go back to the Building Department for confirmation of the FEMA compliance.

"Take it up with the building department," Rogers said. He also said that if the engineering team could get a report stating the fill and associated rocky buttress was acceptable to FEMA, the commission would request an independent peer review "to ensure the report was correct."

Manganello said he felt the project currently fell more under the directives of the building department and that the commission didn't have grounds to request a peer review. Rogers retorted that was why he wanted a response from the building inspector, Andy Bobola.

"We can't approve this plan. There are more impacts than what you have on this plan," Rogers said. The hearing was continued until July 11.

An after-the-fact Notice of Intent filing that had also been continued from June 13 still didn't make it out of the starting blocks when, once again, David Davignon, this time representing William Macropoulos, 12 Howard Beach, came before the commission.

Macropoulos' concrete jetty project had gone beyond the permitted after-the-fact filing by 10 cubic yards for an area of 10-by 12-feet, causing the commission to seek reparations.

Yet, it was difficult for the commissioners or Davignon to determine what the dollar amount should be. All agreed that the town versus the state should benefit from any reparations from Macropoulos. All agreed that money given to the town could be used to purchase additional shellfish seeds, a direct benefit to the community. But none could agree on how to calculate that amount.

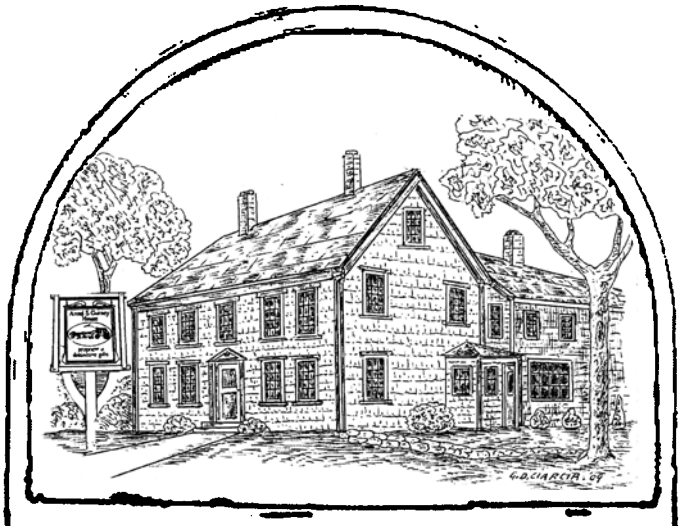

After minutes of haggling over how to go about reaching a figure, Newton asked Davignon, "Have you been authorized to negotiate on his behalf?"

"Well, if it's a low number," Davignon replied.

That moment of levity gave way to Davignon sharing his belief that the commission had no jurisdiction over the violation in the first place, while also taking umbrage to a letter from the Marine Fisheries who concurred that the jetties were a violation requiring reparations; but to whom and how much remained unanswered.

In the end, it was decided that Conservation Agent Liz Leidhold would contact Marine Fisheries to secure a reliable calculation for reparations, and that Macroploulos would send a letter to the commission with a solid offer. The case was continued until July 11.

Other continuances until July 11 were: Forrest Neal, 16 Brandt Island Road, RDA for shed construction; John Schmid, 4 Justin Avenue, RDA for shed construction; Dennis Arsenault, Snow Fields Road, wetland delineations; and William Fredericks, 30 Holly Woods Road, for a NOI for the construction of a driveway and land clearing for future agricultural activities.

Conservation Commission Questions Creative Oversteps

Rochester Conservation Commission

the plants a chance to grow back."

"We need more hunters," said commissioner Michael Conway from the other corner of the table.

"We need better hunters," Teal argued cheerfully.

Once the last of the board members had arrived, the commission turned to the agenda. First in line was a Request for Determination of Applicability filed by Willow Creek Builders for Lots 41 and 43 at property located at Forbes Road. The application proposed installation of two new private wells on the separate lots within a 100-foot buffer zone of two isolated vegetated wetlands. "We have two clusters of plots, and these two lots are having trouble meeting the requirements set by the Board of Health," said Willow Creek Builders representative Tim Higgins. "So for these two lots, we'd like to install individual wells."

Conservation Agent Laurell Farinon reported that the wells really were not very intrusive at all and could easily be installed without any ill effects. She recommended that the commission issue a negative determination so that a notice of intent would not need to be filed. The commission agreed with her determination.

A Request for a Determination of Applicability was filed by Deborah Boyd concerning her property at 5 Bennett Road. The application proposed installation of a new septic tank within a 100-foot buffer zone of an isolated vegetated wetland. Boyd's representative, Rick Charon of Charon Associates, explained that the sewage system had initially been put in over 20 years ago, before more recent bylaws had been passed, and the system was roughly 25 feet from the leaching field. "Now that the property is being sold," he explained, "the system needs to be fixed. We've gotten the max setback that we can on this."

"This one's really tight," said Farinon. "It barely creates a 50-foot buffer." Nevertheless, she again recommended a negative determination, and the commission agreed.

The third request of the night was a Determination of Applicability filed by Hipolito and Donna Almeida for their property at 464 Walnut Plain Road. Chairman Rosemary Smith noted that the silt fence had a large gap at the bottom, and in such a condition was really a useless fence. "If it rains, that's not going to do a thing."

"This was an after-the-fact filing," said Rick Charon, who was also representing the owners. "Originally, the proposal was an addition outside the buffer zone, so there was no notice. Then it was decided to add a row of large stones and approximately fifty feet of cubic fill to a spot inside the buffer zone."

"This is an after-the-fact filing. The silt fence isn't in right, and the pre-existing grading is difficult to see," said Farinon. She recommended continuing the public hearing at the next meeting, where updated plans with a clearer view of the grading could be shown.

The last hearing of the day was a Certificate of Compliance request from Andrea and Donald King for their property at 425 Neck Road. The representative, for the third time that night, was Rick Charon. "It's like Groundhog Day!" exclaimed Teal.

"I didn't notice any erosion on this property," said Charon. "The outlet to the collection system was originally closer to the pond but was moved further away, and there were some other changes."

"If the changes were so significant," said Conway, "why weren't new plans submitted to the board?"

"The changes came through the contractor," Charon explained. "He felt his changes were right and went beyond my plans. He didn't do the paperwork properly, but he did a beautiful job. I don't want to see the Kings punished for contractor overstep when they've done such a good job with this property."

"The contractor did well," admitted Farinon. "When a contractor is hired, a certain amount of creativity comes into play. I went to the property, though, and there were some deviations I was concerned about."

Other members were concerned about a driveway that had apparently been placed inside a 25-foot 'no touch' zone.

"There's a lot of mulch here and the driveway was moved out of place into what looks like the 'no-touch' zone," pointed out associate member Daniel Gagne.

"Well, the area used to be a lawn. I think it had some other functions too," said Farinon.

"'No-touch' doesn't mean virgin, though. It means no-touch," Gagne replied.

"Well, it has been touched," said Teal, surveying Farinon's photos of the location.

Considering the debate, Smith questioned whether they should continue the public hearing at the next meeting.

Farinon paused to think for a moment before replying. "Yes. I'd like to take another look. I'd just like to make a few adjustments before next time."

The next meeting of the Rochester Conservation Commission will be on July 6 at 7:00 pm in the Rochester Town Hall meeting room.

"Tempest In A Teapot"

Marion Conservation Commission

By Marilou Newell

The June 22 meeting of the Marion Conservation Commission was moving along smoothly until a discussion with Jay Myrto of Clean Energy Collective got off to a rocky start.

Chairman Norman Hills inquired why Myrto hadn't considered an alternate screening plan for the Tucker Lane solar array versus the one the Planning Board had put in place during a June meeting. At that Planning Board meeting, Myrto was told that the neighbors wanted additional screening, felt the array and land clearing was decreasing their property values, and demanded action from the Planning Board.

The issue for Hills and the Conservation Commission: the new plan was in jurisdictional wetlands. Hills questioned Myrto as to why he hadn't considered an alternative to the Planning Board's plan of putting additional screening plants in the bordering vegetated wetlands. Myrto said that was possible but really felt he needed to follow the Planning Board's directive.

That frustrated Hills, causing him raise his voice and ask, "Why can't you just do what we asked you?" He said that the Conservation Commission was responsible for the wetlands in question, not the Planning Board or the abutters.

Compounding the issue, during construction of the solar field, a sub-contractor of CEC had removed native plants and shrubs in an area that was not to be altered and left behind what was described as a "scar."

Myrto now found himself in the middle between two of the town's governing bodies that had very little collaboration or cooperation, as noted by commissioner Cindy Callow.

Callow said, "I went to the Planning Board meeting. They said they would help you; you see how many are here now." Myrto was alone. She continued, "They have never come to us in a cooperative manner. Perhaps things could be handled better. I understand they are voted in and we are appointed. It's a tempest in a teapot." Then hitting a more conciliatory note she said, "The plan that has been approved by the Planning Board is okay with me. For the town, we need to work better together in the future." Hills added, "We said we'd be glad to talk to them."

"We approved a plan; it was done," Callow said referring to the first order of conditions the commission had imposed on the project that was subsequently breached by sub-contractor. "In the future, we need to talk as two boards. We reached out to them; they didn't come back, but to expedite things and make things happy we should approve this plan."

Commissioner Joel Hartley said, "I'm not as worried about it as Norm is. I'm okay with the new plan."

In the end, the commissioners voted to amend an enforcement order put in place when the unpermitted clearing was deemed a violation of the order of conditions. The amended enforcement order will allow the additional plantings in the jurisdictional border. Hills abstained from the vote.

Warren Williamson, 121 Converse Road, represented by James Manganello of LEC Environmental, requested an extension permit. Manganello discussed with the commissioners violations to orders of conditions saying, "The property owner is regretful and sorry it happened and wants to be a good steward of the land."

Hills said, "There is a disconnect between what we thought we were approving and what we found." Manganello said that Williamson presently lives out of state and was unaware of local policies regarding landscape alterations. Manganello said that of the wetlands area impacted, "…there's a lot of diversity out there … just about everything is growing back … the root systems were not removed."

Callow referred to the alterations as "extensive" with both Hills and Hartley agreeing. Hills said the commission needed to "get smart" in the event they are faced with such a large violation in the future while rhetorically adding, "The question is how do we go from here to there." A one-year extension was approved with a caution to the applicant, a request to replace delineation flagging, and the development of a wetlands vegetation plan.

The commissioners also discussed what action they should take on violations at 13 East Avenue owned by L. Reinhart. Seawall construction had been deemed unlicensed by the commission. The commissioners concurred that a license needed to be secured from the Massachusetts Department of Environment Chapter 91 as well as a notice of intent which had never been filed. Hartley said that an enforcement order and notification to the DEP was in order. Callow said, "We told them once and they didn't do anything. We need to up the ante a little bit." The commissioners agreed to send enforcement letters.

Doug Thackeray's NOI was continued until July 27 pending notification from the Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries for inspection of Thackeray's aquaculture project off Stewart's Island in Sippican Harbor.

The next meeting of the Marion Conservation Commission is scheduled for July 13 at 7:00 pm in the town house conference room.

To the Editor:

We are Kathryn and Leo LaMontagne who have lived on the north side of 11 Water Street for some twenty-three years. Now senior citizens, we remain excited about living next to The Inn on Shipyard Park and communicating with so many different people who frequent the Inn for food, camaraderie and entertainment.

During this time we have known and been neighbors of the owners including the Goddus, the Kinsale people and recently Nils Johnson and Andrea Perry. We have never had to complain to the owners or the police about noise, traffic or other situations. Some years ago, the Goddus asked us to landscape the Inn front and we continued that activity until two years ago.

Our home is some nine, thirteen and sixteen feet from The Inn. While living next to The Inn, no neighbors have complained to us of noise or problems. We enjoy being Inn neighbors and are positive about the present owners request to repair and expand the porch some three or four feet and adding a few seats.

We are neighbors in just a short period of time in the era of an historic Inn dating to 1799. When we moved next door we accepted the Inn as neighbors and are pleased with our choice.

Respectfully,
Leo and Kathryn LaMontagne

To the Editor:

Mattapoisett Selectmen made a big splash when they expressed their frustration about bicyclists who don't stop at stop signs. Some of the conversation was about whose responsibility it is to slow down or stop, though the consensus is that everyone wants to avert a tragic collision. The intersections of Mattapoisett Neck Road and Brandt Island Road with the bike path are of particular concern because of the sight lines and the speeds involved. Everyone should approach all intersections cautiously. Making eye-contact and stopping are critical factors for avoiding collisions. Everyone, I am sure, will welcome a well-thought-out infrastructure improvement, but the problem of sharing our public ways safely exists in all our neighborhoods and on Route 6, and infrastructure alone cannot create foolproof road conditions.

In a June 8 article at the WGBH "Curiosity Desk," Edgar Herwick III reported on his research into the issue of right-of-way and on his conversation with a personal injury lawyer who said that the laws are more about safety and courtesy, than who "has" the right of way. Herwick said, "…You don't take the right of way, you give it … consider the right of way is not something you are entitled to, but something you have a responsibility to give … So be good to each other out there on the roads. When you give the right of way, being safe also means you get to be generous." You can get a link to the article on the Friends of the Mattapoisett Rail Trail Facebook page.

As summer gets into full swing, please talk with your family, guests and neighbors about caution, the rules of the road, and most especially about what it takes to keep you, them and everybody else out of harm's way. Whether you go by foot, scooter, skateboard, motorized or self-propelled wheelchair, horseback, bike, motorcycle, ATV or car, please use caution and courtesy. Turn the music down, slow down, put down the phone and the slurpee, unplug the earphones and enjoy your ride.

Montigny Urges Additional Offshore Wind Investment

Senate Assistant Majority Leader Mark Montigny (D-New Bedford) is urging his Senate colleagues to include strong provisions for offshore wind power in the impending omnibus energy bill set to be released this Friday. For several months, the Rules Chairman has levered his leadership in the Senate to persistently demand a significant role for offshore wind in the state's energy portfolio. Earlier this month, the House passed its own energy legislation that provided just 1,200 megawatts of offshore wind procurement. It is widely thought, by industry experts, researchers and stakeholders that approximately 2,000 megawatts are necessary to ensure offshore wind facilities can be built to scale. A significant investment in offshore wind energy can help the Commonwealth meet its greenhouse gas reduction benchmarks and supplant energy that has, or will be, going offline in the region such as the scheduled 2019 shutdown of the Pilgrim nuclear power plant in Plymouth.

"With immense wind resources just off our coastline and waterfront facilities ready to support offshore operations, New Bedford is in a prime position to help make the state a leader in renewable energy," said Senator Montigny. "I will continue to push for additional offshore wind power in the Senate that will bring jobs and economic growth to the region. I am hopeful that the Senate will meet the 2,000 megawatt target as the 1,200 figure is simply inadequate. If required, an amendment will be filed to ensure this goal is met."

Senator Montigny represents the 2nd Bristol and Plymouth District that includes Acushnet, Dartmouth, Fairhaven, Mattapoisett, and New Bedford.

New Bedford Harbor early Saturday morning to celebrate clean water in Buzzards Bay during the Buzzards Bay Coalition's 23rd annual Buzzards Bay Swim.

As of the start of the event on Saturday, swimmers had raised $120,000 to support the nonprofit Coalition's work to protect clean water, conserve land and educate youth and adults across the Buzzards Bay region, from Westport to Woods Hole. Members of the public who wish to support the Swim can still donate at www.savebuzzardsbay.org/swim.

"The Buzzards Bay Swim is a fantastic celebration of clean water in our community," said Coalition President Mark Rasmussen. "The fact that nearly 250 swimmers came out this morning to swim across New Bedford Harbor – one of the biggest Swims in 23 years – shows how important clean water is to people here on Buzzards Bay."

Calm, clear waters and bright sunshine greeted swimmers as they gathered at The Edge Seafood & Lounge beach in New Bedford's South End. The first swimmers started at 7:15 am, and around 9:00 am the final swimmers had covered the 1.2-mile course and arrived at the finish line at Fort Phoenix Beach State Reservation in Fairhaven.

"This is such a great event because it's all about community," said Laurie Hellstrom of Fairhaven, a masters swim team member at the New Bedford YMCA who completed her fifth Swim today. "It was a beautiful

The Swim drew participants from 120 communities in 15 states, including as far as away as Alaska, Washington and Florida. Swimmers ranged in age from 12 to 76.

First-time Buzzards Bay Swim participant and New Hampshire resident Peggy Chisholm grew up in Padanaram, and she swims in Buzzards Bay when she visits southeastern Massachusetts on weekends. "I love these waters," she said after crossing the finish line.

Obituaries:

Marlene A. (Sylvia) Hirst, 76, of Fairhaven, passed away Sunday, June 19, 2016, at Sippican Healthcare Center, in Marion, after a period of declining health. She was the wife of the late David M. Hirst.

Born in New Bedford, daughter of the late Manuel B. and Lucille (DeTerra) Sylvia, she lived most of her life in Mattapoisett prior to settling in Fairhaven 25 years ago.

Marlene had worked as a secretary for Frank Sylvia Relator for many years. She loved doing crafts, especially crocheting and knitting and was active in the operation of her daughter's craft shop on Spring Street, in Fairhaven, the former Linda's Country Collection.

She is survived by her daughter, Linda Ryan of New Bedford; a son, Gerald Brecken, Jr. of Fairhaven; three grandchildren, Jeremy and Kristopher Borges and Jessica Brecken; two step sons, Michael Hirst and his wife Judy of Hudson and Matthew Hirst and his wife Tracy of Freetown; a step daughter, Suzanne Bancroft and her husband David of Fairhaven; an aunt, Ruth Sylvia of Marion; several great grandchildren, step grandchildren and nieces and nephews. Mrs. Hirst was the mother of the late Shawn Brecken, mother in law of the late Michael Ryan and she was the last of four children.

Private arrangements are by the Fairhaven Funeral Home, 117 Main Street, Fairhaven.

Catherine "Nonie" Perry, 62, of New Bedford, passed away, Friday, June 24, 2016, at St. Luke's Hospital, surrounded by her family.

Catherine was born in Newport, RI and was a daughter of the late James D. and Vera R. (Costa) Hunt.

Catherine was a lifelong area resident and worked as a receptionist at James Hairstylist, in Fairhaven, for many years. She was an avid reader and loved long phone conversations. She enjoyed trips to the family summer home at Mattapoisett Beach and cherished the time she spent with her family, especially her grandchildren and great grandchildren.

She is survived by her daughter, Marcy E. Cruz; brother, James S. Hunt and sister,, Madeline Perry and her husband John, all of New Bedford, five grandchildren, Alyceia, Roberta, Phillip, La'Mia and Ma'kai; two great grandchildren, Azyah and Sy'el, many nieces and nephews; and her former husband and good friend Barry Perry.

Her funeral service will be held on Wednesday, June 29, 2016, at 7pm, in the Fairhaven Funeral Home, 177 Main St., Fairhaven. Relatives and friends are invited to attend. Burial will be private.

Calling Hours will precede the service from 4-7pm.

In lieu of flowers, donations in her name may be made to the St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital, 501 St. Jude Pl., Memphis, TN 38105, or to the Shriners Hospital for Children, 51 Blossom St., Boston, MA 02114.

Edward Martin Cooney, 82, died at home in Marion, MA on June 24, 2016 surrounded by the love of family. He was born to the late Edward and Mary (Sullivan) Cooney on October 22, 1933 in Framingham, MA. After high school and a year of electronics trade school, he enlisted in the U.S. Coast Guard where he repaired radar, served on weather patrol and lived out stories he would tell (and re-tell) for a lifetime.

He married Elizabeth "Betty" (Donlan) Cooney in 1958 and upon graduating from Boston University he and Betty moved to Newport to begin a full life. Ed worked in the defense industry as a contracts administrator and executive, most memorably at Sippican Corporation in Marion, MA. Marion became the family's center and Ed lived there for 48 years. A perfect work day for Ed would be driving to Boston for meetings while Carly Simon sang "You're so Vain" to him personally in his Peugeot, followed by watching one of his children's games, family dinner and a gin and tonic.

He was known for his quick wit, intellectual curiosity, marine electronics prowess, writing clever songs and poems for friends and his big blue eyes. He loved his family, friends, colleagues, Elmore Leonard, John le Carré and chocolate chip ice cream. He also loved his boats, especially the White Whale - a wooden 42' Classic Grand Banks Hull #16 which he maintained himself. While he suffered from poor health for decades, he remained incredibly upbeat. He was well loved by his family and lovingly cared for by his wife.

He is survived by his wife of 58 years, Betty; his four children, Beth Cooney and her husband Rob Sargent and their children Michaela and Rory, Ted Cooney and his wife Claire and their daughter Elle, Dan Cooney and his wife Kate and their children Henry and Owen and Sarah Garabedian and her husband Mike; and his three sisters, Sylvia Stickney and her husband Bill, Nancy Mahoney and her husband John, and Mary Harvey.

A celebration of his life will be held on Tuesday, August 2nd at 2 PM at Tabor Academy's Wickenden Chapel in Marion, MA.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be sent in Ed's memory to (the amazing) Community Nurse Home Care at 62 Center Street, PO Box 751, Fairhaven, 02719. www.communitynurse.com. Arrangements are with the Saunders-Dwyer Mattaposiett raised $3,506, while Dan Vasconcellos of Pembroke raised $2,900 in memory of his father, Arthur. Rebecca Williams of Rochester was the top fundraiser for a new swimmer, raising $2,420. In addition to the top individual fundraisers, the Red Dory Restaurant of Tiverton, R.I. was the top fundraising team with a total of $4,026.

Vasconcellos remembers when water conditions weren't so clear when he participated in his first Buzzards Bay Swim over 20 years ago. "You might have been able to see your hand in front of you. Now, the conditions are unbelievable. I like to think it's due to the efforts of the Coalition."

After the Swim, participants, volunteers and supporters enjoyed a finish line beach party with a pancake breakfast, complimentary massages, live music from El Caribe and a live radio broadcast with Michael Rock of FUN 107. The event concluded with an awards ceremony.

Fifteen-year-old Henry Keegan of Needham was the top finisher, completing the course in 22 minutes and 40 seconds. Eric Pauls of Westport came in second with a time of 22 minutes and 58 seconds. In third place was Frank Wuest of Boston with a time of 24 minutes and 10 seconds, a tie with the top overall female finisher, Morgan McCarthy of East Orleans.

The Wheeler Watershed Challenge Cup for the fastest team went to the "Salty Sea Dogs" (Alex Gallant of Lakeville, Nick Graca of East Freetown and Trevor Ragas

John D. Langlois, a lifelong resident of Mattapoisett, MA, died unexpectedly on his way to work Saturday, June 25, 2016. He was 56-years old. He was the beloved son of Barbara L. (Warburton) Langlois and the late John A. "Chick" Langlois. He was married to his high-school sweetheart, Anne (Fistori) Langlois. They would have celebrated their 32nd wedding anniversary on July 7, 2016.

John is survived by his sons Andrew D. Langlois and his companion, Holly Duncan of Fairhaven, MA, William S. Langlois and his fiancée, Erin McGrath and his daughter, Avery M. Langlois, all of Mattapoisett, MA. He is also survived by his mother-in law Nancy Fistori, brothers and sisters-in law Peter and Amy Trow, Randy and Meg Spence, Paul and Erin Fistori and John and Christine Fistori. He was the loving uncle of Grace, Annie, Josh, Nick, Nate, Johnny, Cameron, Sophie and Cole.

He graduated from Old Rochester Regional High School and Cape Cod Community College. His entrepreneurial endeavors began in 1985 with the opening of J's Citgo in Mattapoisett. He then went on to own and operate a very successful Interstate Batteries Distributorship. He followed his love of boats and started Ned's Point Marine at the Mattapoisett Boat Yard. He joined his son Andrew's landscape business in 2010, and together they formed the thriving Langlois Landscapes, LLC. In 2014 John and Andrew expanded the business with Langlois Landscapes Truck Equipment Rental.

John was an avid boater and happiest when cruising Buzzards Bay on the family Black Watch with his children and friends. His devotion to Andrew, William and Avery never wavered, and he was incredibly proud of their individual accomplishments. His family and friends' hearts are broken. His death has left a void so great and deep, but he would expect us to be strong and carry on.

As John would want, we will have a "wicked-informal" celebration of his life at Ned's Point at 4:00 p.m. on Friday, July 1, 2016.

In lieu of flowers, John would be honored to have donations made to the Hollandstrong Scholarship in memory of William's college roommate, Michael Holland, who perished on the El Faro in October 2015. Checks can be mailed to Deborah Roberts, 90 Shea St., Wilton, ME 04294. For online guestbook, please visit www.saundersdwyer.com.

Movie Review

Not Too Deep

By Rob Gonsalves

The Shallows*. Starring Blake Lively and a shark. Directed by Jaume Collet-Serra. Running time: 87 minutes. MPAA rating: PG-13.

It's probably in the nature of shark movies to be hyperbolic — even the legendary Jaws made its great white 25 feet long — but The Shallows endows its toothy antagonist with powers well beyond mere mortal sharks. This shark leaps into the air to take down a surfer in mid-surf; it chomps fearlessly into whale hide, rocks, and finally metal; it leaps into the air again to escape the fiery surface of the ocean. What it doesn't do is swim around lackadaisically, mostly just screwing around until it occasionally bites something, which I imagine is what real sharks do. No, this shark isn't just a human-killer (making it an anomaly in the world of sharks), it's a serial human-killer, taking out two men within minutes of each other (making it idiotic in the world of narrative).

The shark is trying to eat Blake Lively. Blake Lively is just trying to make it home alive and prove she can carry a movie almost literally by herself, as her husband Ryan Reynolds did in Buried. But whether Lively can anchor minimalist suspense is a question the movie doesn't allow itself to answer, because it weighs her down with backstory. And the backstory — her character mourns the death of her mom, which has made her question whether she should continue working on her med degree — doesn't really play to Lively's strengths. The backstory is only there to turn the movie into a Chicken Soup for the Soul fable about fighting for life. But would we not feel the heroine's life was worth fighting for without all the special pleading?

Anyway, Blake is out surfing off the same beach her dead mom used to frequent, and the aforementioned shark, defending its turf (a decomposing whale carcass), bites her. She makes it to a bit of rock, accompanied by a blood-streaked seagull. Using her med-school know-how (leading us to think that if she were, say, a marketing major or something instead, she'd just bleed out 35 minutes into the movie, the end), she takes her earrings and, in tight, nauseating close-ups, "stitches" her wound closed. Is this something doctors can do to themselves without anesthesia? I was reminded of the notorious Stephen King short story "Survivor Type," in which a doctor marooned on an island removes and eats parts of himself to live another day.

The Shallows also reminded me of a similar and vastly superior nature thriller, Open Water, which had the dark wit to let one of its yuppie protagonists howl into the uncaring void, "We paid to do this!" The new movie, though, has no wit, dark or otherwise; it's too sappy to be lean and mean. As a fable of endurance, it lacks the visceral tension and based-on-a-true-story authenticity of 127 Hours. We know Blake Lively will survive as soon as we see her talking to her kid sister and dad via videochat. Indeed, we may easily imagine the heroine going on to a lucrative career giving feel-good talks about how she conquered her demons (grief, nihilism, shark), and you can too for the low introductory price of $49.95.

The backdrop for the sad blond white woman to have her crisis is a never-named beach somewhere in Mexico. Blake encounters five Mexicans. One is an amiable guy who gives her a ride to the beach and refuses payment. Two are surfers who condescend to her. One is a drunk fatso who steals her phone and backpack, and is about to go steal her surfboard when the shark comes calling. And one is a boy, the amiable guy's son I guess, who happens to find the GoPro helmet camera Blake records her goodbyes on as a sort of message in a bottle. The movie is set in Mexico, I guess, so that Blake is alone among people who can only speak limited English or can't understand her limited Spanish. Certain orange-skinned pundits might conclude that what's needed to protect American med students from Mexican sharks is a wall — an underwater wall — and the sharks will pay for it, and let me tell you, it will be terrific.

Residents of Marion and Mattapoisett celebrated the grand opening of their beloved town beaches on Saturday, June 25. At Silvershell Beach in Marion, the Marion Recreation Department provided an array of food, fun, and games for beachgoers, and in Mattapoisett, kids enjoyed face painting, sack races, and, of course, plenty of sun. Check the website for Try Out dates or email questions or interest to info@mryouthsoccer.org. Travel team divisions include U9 Boys and Girls and are available as numbers warrant through U19.

MMRYS has also teamed up with Seaside Soccer to offer soccer camps to be held all summer long at locations convenient to all Tri-Town families and kids. Seaside Soccer Training is an established organization dedicated to the progression and improvement of both novice and advanced soccer in the Buzzards Bay region. More information about the camp can be found at Seaside Soccer's Facebook page.

While focus will be on development of players at a recreation level, educating coaches and growing the program to a year round opportunity, under the leadership of Eric Parada and his Boston Bolt connections, MMRYS CLUB level for players that are looking to compete at an even higher level will be a possibility in the future. With all the exciting changes, MMRYS expects to be a center for great Youth Soccer in Massachusetts.

The number of participants in this year's Marion Village 5K might have been down slightly according to race organizers, but the sentiment of fun and competition certainly was not on Saturday, June 25. Taking first place for men was Andrew Sukeforth of Middleboro with a time of 15:43, and Meg Hughes of Rochester won first place in the women's division with a time of 19:50. The annual 5K race that winds its way through scenic Marion village is now in its 20th year. Photos by Colin Veitch

Calling All 12-14 Year Old Rochester Kids

Growing up in Rochester in the 1950s was quite different than it is today. Back in the day, there were no iPhones, iPads or iTunes.

The Rochester Historical Society is sponsoring a writing contest for Rochester's youth between the ages of 12-14 years old. The essay, which should be a minimum of one page, should compare the differences of playtime activities of 12-14 year-old children in the 1950s in Rochester with what 12-14 years old kids do today for fun.

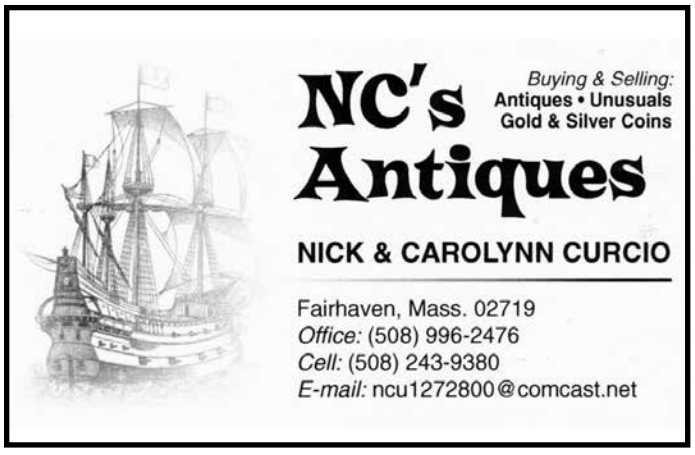

Ask your parents, your grandparents, your neighbors, or visit the Historical Society's museum to help you unlock the ideas for your essay. What would you do without your iPad? What would you be doing if you couldn't text or Tweet your friends or watch videos? You might be surprised by all the things the Rochester kids of the 1950s did for fun.

The top three essays will be announced at the Historical Society Booth at the Rochester Country Fair in August. First prize will be $100; second prize will be $75; and third prize will be $50. Submissions must be postmarked no later than August 1. Please mail your entry to Rochester Historical Society, P.O. Box 171, Rochester, MA 02770. Please include your name, address and age on your essay. Any questions, call Edyie at 508-961-7401.

So Rochester kids between the ages of 12-14, put down your iPad and pick up your pencils. We look forward to reading your essays.

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You feel ready to face up to a major change, although it might involve some risks. A once-dubious family member comes around and offers support and encouragement.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Move forward with your plans, despite discouraging words from those who underestimate the Bovine's strong will. Your keen instincts will guide you well.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A misunderstanding is easily cleared up. Then go ahead and enjoy some fun and games this week. A Libra might have ideas that merit serious consideration for the future.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might feel as if you're in an emotional pressure cooker, but the situation is about to change in your favor. Take time out for some well-earned fun.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A shift in your workplace responsibilities creates resentment among some co-workers. Deal with it before it becomes a threat to your success on the job.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Expect some surprises in what you thought was one of your typically well-planned schedules. Deal with them, and then enjoy some lighthearted entertainment.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Be careful: What appears to be a solid financial opportunity might have some hidden risks attached. A hazy personal matter needs to be cleared up.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) It's a good time to strengthen ties with family and friends. You might feel unsure about a recent workplace decision, but time will prove you did the right thing.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Just when you thought your relationship was comfortable and even predictable, your partner or spouse could spring a potentially life-changing surprise on you.

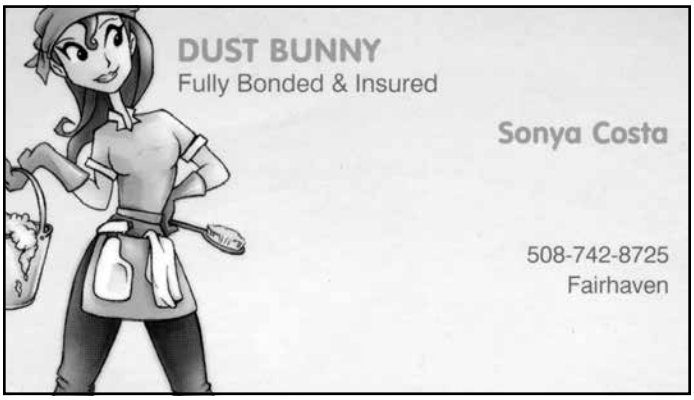

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your usually generous self is overshadowed by your equally strong suspicious nature. You might be judging things too harshly. Keep an open mind.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Love and romance dominate the week. Married Aquarians enjoy domestic harmony, while singles could soon be welcoming overtures from loving Leos.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) An old health problem recurs, but it is soon dealt with, leaving you eager to get back into the swing of things. A favorable travel period starts this week.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have an independent spirit that resists being told what to do. But you're also wise enough to appreciate good advice.

New Summer Programs at the MNHM

Join us on Wednesday afternoons from 1:00 - 4:00 pm this summer for nature programs with the Marion Natural History Museum. The cost for each program is $24 for members, $30 for non-members.

July 20: Exploring Fresh Water Ecosystems at Washburn Park. We'll be exploring vernal pools, woods and bogs. We'll spend the afternoon looking at plants and soils, netting amphibians and fish, and looking for birds and signs of other types of wildlife.

July 27: Introduction to Our Coastal Birds. A naturalist with MA Fish and Wildlife will be giving us a presentation on shore birds of our area. We will be able to hear first-hand from one of the naturalists how they've been helping to improve the nesting habitat for the Roseate Terns of our area. Then we will be taking a trip to Bird Island, courtesy of Marion Harbormaster's office and lead naturalist, Carolyn Mostello.

August 3: Summer Star Lab. Explore summer constellations with the Museum's Star Lab portable planetarium. We will have the opportunity to work with the Star Lab instructor to learn to identify some of the features of our nighttime summer skies.

August 10: Children's Nature Journaling Workshop. Learn the art of observation with Artist and Naturalist Tricia Cassidy. This is a great way to introduce the students to the world of journaling. We will make a small sketchbook and then go outside to learn different ways to observe and draw from nature.

August 17: Making Artwork from Nature. During this program, we'll collect interesting items during our hike around town and then use them to create our own masterpieces here at the museum.

Jay Gould, DVM

My dog spends lots of time chewing and licking his feet. What does this mean?

Your dog is showing signs of allergies. People with allergies tend to cough and sneeze. Dogs will lick, chew and rub.

What can my dog be allergic to and what should I do?

Your dog can be allergic to food, fleas, articles that he comes into contact with such as wool rugs, all pollen, mold, and dust that affects people. Try to keep a log of your dog's itchiness to determine if it happens all year round or if it is seasonal. Food allergies tend to be seasonal. Talk to you veterinarian about diet changes, medications and allergy testing to determine what may be the most helpful for your pet.

Keel Awards

The Wanderer is pleased to announce that we are soliciting nominations for our 21st annual "Wanderer Keel Awards." The yearly community service honor – which is presented to one Tri-Town resident from each of the three central towns in our circulation area – will be announced in our July 28 edition, and each winner will be the subject of a short feature highlighting their contributions to the local community. But The Wanderer needs your help in selecting these "unsung heroes."

The requirements are simple. Nominees must be legal residents, for at least five years, of Mattapoisett, Marion or Rochester and must have contributed in some way to the overall benefit of the community – either directly to town residents, or indirectly through efforts in promoting town activities, or working to keep the wheels of local government well oiled. The only restriction is that these persons cannot benefit from their efforts in any other way – either financially or politically (hence, sitting elected officials are not eligible).

In doing this, we hope to applaud those who are rarely recognized for their countless hours of service and focus on the many people behind the scenes who remain otherwise anonymous, but provide crucial support to many town functions. Like the keel of a ship, which keeps the vessel from capsizing, the recipients of the Annual Wanderer Keel Award will be recognized for their stalwart efforts in keeping the community on an "even keel."

Past recipients of this honor include:

Surveys will be collected until July 1, 2016. Information about Mattapoisett Cultural Council can be found at https://www.mass-culture.org/mattapoisett#.
